HOW TO DRINK WINE.

From the Wine and Spirit Gazette.

To Enjoy Its Pleasures It Must He Handled With Discrimination.

Wine ought to be presented at the proper temperature, and champagne as cold as it can be made without absolutely freezing. No ice should ever be used in champagne or in sparkling wine. The bottle should be put upon or covered with ice before serving. Champagne drank with ice in it is merely drinking for show. It leaves no pleasant taste, makes the wine flat, destroys its flavor, and depresses its beautiful sparkling qualities Claret and Burgundy, on the contrary, should be drank moderately warm. A gentle warmth brings out an appreciation of body, diminishes the astringency, and develops all the finer qualities prominently, including that of bouquet. It is surprising to note the carelessness or gross ignorance with which good clarats are served and drank. White wines, such as gauterne and Rhine wines, and others of similar character should be drank comparatively cold or cool. While a chilling tem-perature destroys the flavor of claret, it has a contrary effect apparently on white wines, bringing out the bouquet and giving them an agreeable, fresh, spicy taste. Port, therry and Madeira should be partaken of at a moderately warm degree of temperature, and if used in winter should be gently heated. These wines lose in body and flavor by being chilled, and port especially suffers most severely under such lowering of temperature, when exposed to cold, acquiring a peror William of Germany crossed over the Solent from Cowes to this port during the morning on board the royal yacht Alberta. His majesty was received at the dock yard by Admiral Sir Nowell Salmon, K. C. B., V. C., and staff and all the commanding officers of the garrison. The ships in the harbor were dressed with bunting and guns from the forts and war vessels boomed forth salutes as the emperor landed.

After a short inspection of the dock yards the emperor was escorted to a special train, which conveyed him to Aldershot camp. At Aldershot his majesty was received by the Duke of Connaught, in command of by the Duke of Connaught, in command of the district, and by Gen. Buller, K. C. B., V. C., the adjutant general, and by Gen. Sir Francis Greenfell, G. C. M. G., and a large and bnilliant staff.

Also in waiting at the railroad station was a squadron of the first (royal) dragoons, of which regiment the emperor is honorary colonel. The first dragoons had honorary colonel. The first dragoons had been ordered specially from Ireland in order to act as escort to his majesty. Major General the Duke of Teck acted as the German Emperor's personal orderly. Great crowds of people cheered Emperor William and the duke as they rode toward Laffan's Plain in order to review the troops.

The review was a most successful affair, over 12,000 troops, including 3,000 cavalry turning out to do honor to the emperor The latter wore the uniform of the first royal) dragoons and led that regiment past the saluting point. The emperor then sta-tioned himself beside the Duke of Con-naught and closely followed the movements of each corps as it passed.

Commerce and agriculture, therefore, are much disturbed. It is added that the insurgents' greatest strength is in the north, and they appear to have no settled plans of campaign.

Gen. Caceres, it is added, assumed the presidency without any manifestation of hostile feelings against him. The new ministers assumed office yesterday. Public opinion is apathetic in regard to the ap-

NEW YORK, August 13.-Senor Modesta Barrios, Nicaraguan minister to England, was a passenger by the Pacific mail steamer City of Para, which arrived from Colon today. Senor Barrios had heard no news from his country since July 29.

When questioned as to his mission to England he stated that he had full power to settle the Mosquito trouble between England and Nicaragua. He would endeavor to have the Managua treaty between his country and Great Britain modified, and was confi-dent of success. Senor Barrios talks En-glish, but prefers to use the Spanish language. All Western Industrials to Be Sent Away Tonight.

COMMISSIONERS' FINAL

All Those Left Will Be Treated as Vagrants.

WET SUNDAY

The edict has gone forth. The common wealers must leave the city tonight, otherwise the Commissioners will not furnish transportation. This morning the chief of police, Mr.

Frank Hume and City Passenger Agent George M. Bond of the C. and O. railroad had a conference with Commissioner Ross relative to the disposition of the remnants of the army. It was represented that there remained in camp about 165 men, one-half at least of whom belonged to the east. It was decided to offer transportation to the other half from the west, and those who accept it will leave tonight at 11 o'clock. Then those who belong east will be given notice to leave the city within twenty-four hours. If they fail to do so they will be arrested as vagrants and sent to the work house.

The Camp Today. There is but little apparent diminishing in the ranksof commonwealers encamped in the rear grounds of the old naval observatory.

Conflicting reports have been circulated as to their numerical strength, and it is hard to determine, for as fast as some are transported away others appear and fill their places. There is no anxiety on the part of the industrials as to what will be their future after tomorrow, as it seems to be un-derstood that an extersion of time will be derstood that an extersion of time will be granted. The scene was a picturesque one this morning. Little groups of men were gathered here and there, some under trees, others under small shacks of cut brush, and others under the naval observatory pavilion. About a dozen fires were ablaze, and the odor of boiling meat and vegetables permeated the atmosphere. The picturesque is added by the white walls of the old observatory and the abandoned stables and outbuildings belonging to it. "Well, we are on Uncle Sam's grass, after all," remarked one commonwealer, "and that with governmental authority," added another. Just then the strains of the "After the Ball" tune filled the air, the words being "After the Strike." The discordant music ceased the Strike." The discordant music ceased upon the appearance of Dr. Griffith, who has charge of the grounds and the buildings. He had desired to know the correct number of industrials. A commonwealer, after taking the census, reported 250, which is an increase over the number as determin-ed by a policeman, who reported 158. The contingents from Spokane and Seattle grouped apart from the rest, and after a consultation the single men, one and all, agreed not to agree transportation unless it be to their homes. "We would rather go to the work house here than to be shipped about like a lot of cattle, and, having been dumped on some western city, be pinched and jailed out there," remarked one of them, "and we are just going to stay here, now that we are here. They can do no more than arrest us, and we will not object." There are about thirty of this class, and according to that statements. Mrs. and according to their statements Mrs. Cantwell's division will greatly swell the No one seems to know just where Mrs. Cantwell, her little child and the big dog are, so a committee of five was disputched to go up above Georgetown, and another committee sent over in Maryland, to locate the female commonwealer and pilot her into the observatory/camp. There is some doubt as to whether the authorities will allow her to come in, but unless orders are issued contrary she will meet no opposition from the police, who have charge of the men, or the marines, who are only guarding Uncle Sam's property.

Dr. Griffith paid a visit to the Navy Department this morring and reported the condition of affairs. He seems to think there will be an extension of time, as the railroad company will transport only sixty men a night, and, while there are some who will not go, still the majority were making preparations for their trip tonight, while others are looking forward to a trip on Wednesday.

Beyond the shower this morning, the mer experienced no inconvenience, there being sufficient food in camp to last them during the day. Some of the marines are keeping a watchful eye on a vegetable garden of some dimensions which belongs to the observatory, and orders have been issued not to allow the industrials to enter. A group of three nen, however, were overheard to remark that they knew where the vectables were, and that it was an easy matter to sneak in there tonight, in spite of the dgilant sentry. Communication with Dr. Griffith is maintained by passing word along the lines, it being transmitted first to the police and then passed from the sentry on the outside to the officer in command on the inside of the building, and thence to Dr. Griffith, who, while his duty only lies in keeping the property free from depredations and injury, still maintains a friendly feeling for the men, and gave orders that the stable be cleaned out and made into sleeping quar-ters for some of the industrials.

Regarding the proposed farm, some are skeptical, while others confidently assert that some Washington philanthropist, who desires his name kept quiet, is arranging for the purchase of several hundred acres of ground on the Virginia side, and in the event of its not being purchased a lease for a number of years will be arranged. This land is said to be mostly timber land, and the commonwealers will work it on the co-operative system. co-operative system.

A Wet Sunday. The industrialites had a sorry time of it yesterday. The steady rain and the keen, raw atmosphere made life miserable for them, and as if to make matters worse the morning broke with no food in sight. Prospective starvation was happily averted, however, by Mr. Frank Hume, to whose warm benevolence the misguided men atwarm benevolence the misguided men attracted to Washington under the guise of industrials demanding relief owe a great deal of gratitude. For the past three weeks Mr. Hume has been providing the hungry throngs with provisions, and yesterday he sent a large quantity of bread, beans, bacon, tea, coffee and sugar to the present encampment and lightened the alerd campment, and lightened the cloud of gloo and discontent that had settled upon the aggregation. In the afternoon the Rev. Dr Seymour conducted a religious service of the lawn in front of the old observator the lawn in front of the old observatory building, and there was prayer and preaching and song. The industrials joined in the latter with hearty willingness. Besides Dr. Seymour, Mrs. Cowgill and Mrs. Goff also addressed the men. There was no disposition on the part of the authorities to treat the industrials as preserved. the industrials as prisoners in any sense. Marines from the navy yard guarded the buildings in the inclosure to prevent the strangers from entering them, but the stables and outhouses on the grounds were proffered to the men last night for sleeping purposes, and this unlooked-for shelter from the weather was eagerly accepted It is expected that all the men now occupying the observatory grounds will be cupying the observatory grounds will be sent out of the city to their homes in the west within the next forty-eight hours. Sattrday night, a car containing seventy-two men, under command of Hugh Cassidy, was sent by way of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad on its way to Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Frank Hume furnished provisions for the travelers. Last night sixty-five more, with "Lieutenant Colone!" Moody at their head, were also sent to Kansas City, and every man aboard was glad that he was leaving Washington. In a speech before their departure "General" a speech before their departure "General' Jeffries wished them good fortune and expressed the hope that they would, upon reaching home, organize regiments of un-employed men, who would be ready to march to Washington next spring in numbers as to overawe the people and the rational legislature as well. The curious crowd that assembled cheered Jeffries' speech, but it was noticed that the Californians, who had been deluded into com-ing to the east by agitators similar to Jeffries, did not grow enthusiastic over the suggestion held out.

The Organization. The fact is, however, that the various centingents of the industrial army and the commonweal have formed a permanent or

"The Industrial Army Co-operative Commonwealth of the United States," and its purposes are ret forth to be to preserve peace, to educate the masses to a proper use of the ballot, to provide a commissary for clothing and feeding its members, to prepare a monster petition, and to assemble the unemployed at the national capital to demand of Corgress such legislation as will give immediate relief. Nationalization of the currency, land, transportation, communication and all public monopolies shall be demanded; also reduction of the hours of labor in proportion to the progress of preduction, the unabridged right of combination and the repeal of all tramp and sumptuary laws.

age, books, clothing and meals to be fur-nished free when necessary; that employ-ment of children of school age and of girls in occupations detrimental to health or morality be prohibited, and that the con-vict labor law be abolished.

The organization pledges itself to support the political party adopting the principles enumerated above and provides for maintaining a force of officers in this city. Officers of the army have been elected to serve three months. They are: Major general, E. J. Jeffries of Seattle, Wash.; brigadier gen-eral, J. C. Carroll of Indiana; secretary, F. S. de Mattos, Washington, D. C.; treasurer, A. S. Diggs, Washington, D. C.; and the following general officers for the states ramed: Montana, William Hogan, Butte; Oregon, Gen. Scheaffler, Portland; Idaho, Paddy Burke, Wallace; Utah, Gen. Carter, Salt Lake; Minnesota, Charles Clark, Min-reapolis; Texas, John W. Primrose; Kansas, Gen. Clements; Ohio, David Rankin, Cleve-land; Nebraska, H. Cohen, Omaha; Iowa, T. B. Daly, Batavia.

The former encampment of the common weal of Christ on the Stegmaler place near Highlands was visited by Jesse Coxey early yesterday morning. He is alleged to have endeavored to take away a horse and buggy belonging to the commonweal, and in the row that followed it is said that Marshal Bullock, who endeavored to prevent the removal, was struck on the head with a base ball bat, while a half-breed Coxey follower received a black eye. Arch Commonwealer Coxey himself is expected to revisit the scenes of his former greatness today.

The property belonging to the commonwealers, consisting of a number of tents, horses, etc., has not yet been removed from the grounds of Mr. Stegmaier. No action will be taken in the matter until instruc-tions are received from the state's attorney. The Hyattsville authorities are of the opinion that the tents should have been re-moved when the raid was made upon the camp, so that no inducements in the way of shelter could be offered to other Coxey-ites or "industrials" who might attempt to ocate there.

The Arrival of Ex-President Harrison

dence of The Evening Star. ELBERON, N. J., August 11, 184. lasted several days, and attracted the attention which is due to the fame of the men who played for the beautiful silver prize. The entries included Larned, Chase, Wrenn, States, and Goodbody, the English crack. The players are luxuriously housed in a cottage by themseives. After the games tea was served on the lawn by Mrs. W. D. Harper, the wife of the well-known publisher, and Mrs. Henry Browning. The entries for the horse show at Hollywood numbered one hundred and seventyfive. There were seven four-in-hand teams. and more than twenty mares and geldings. The ladies' driving class was also spiendidly filled. Eight tandems were entered and more than a dozen horses in each jumping class. Some of the finest horses in the country were on exhibition. Today the farmers are allowed the opportunity to show their farm horses. The master of the Monmouth County Hunt offers three prizes valued at $100 to the farmers exhibiting the three best single farm horses to farm wagons. The general plan of the horse show is that of the great show held at the Madi-son Square Garden, in New York city, but some of the classes were even more interesting than the same events at the garden.

This is particularly the case as to fourin-hand driving; the greater space permitted better display of the possibilities in this direction than is practicable within doors. The same was true of class two, which was for roadsters to wagons. In fact, except to classes which are exhibited in hand, the open air show must always have the advantage which comes of ample room for maneuvering. There were twenty-one classes on the program. A band of twenty pleces discoursed sweet music to the fashion and beauty assemble several thousand several on the grand stand. Ex-President Harrison is here. Upon his arrival the station was decked with flags.

Report of the House Committee Upon Two Classes.

Those for Stores and Supplies Furnished the Union Army and the French Spoliation Claims.

Considerable information regarding the French spoliation claims and those for stores and supplies furnished the Union forces by southern men who were loval to the Union during the war is contained in an elaborate report recently submitted to the House by Representative Bunn of North Carolina, from the committee on claims. Some time ago there was referred to the committee a bill to provide a mode for the payment of those claims, and the report made advances many reasons why it should be enacted into law. In brief, the bill provides that the claims for "stores and supplies" and for "French spoliations" shall be annually estimated for upon lists furnished by the Court of Claims, and placed upon the sundry civil appropriation bill; that for the first year the appropriation shall not exceed two and one-half millions—i.e., $500,000 on the first named class and $2,000,000 on the second class—so as to pay off those which have accumulatas to pay of those which have accumulated in consequence of no appropriation having been made by the last Congress, and that thereafter the appropriation shall not exceed $500,000 to each. The sums appropriated are provided to be paid on the claims in the order in which the same are allowed by the court allowed by the court. Claims for Stores and Supplies. "The claims for stores and supplies," says the report, "are those for necessaries furnished the Union force by southern men who were during the late war loyal to the Union, whose claims have been duly presented to the southern claims commis sion, and, not having been finally acted upon by Congress, have been referred to the Court of Claims under the Bowman act, where they are required to establish their active loyalty by proper proof as a jurisdictional fact, and then establish the jurisdictional fact, and then establish the use of their property by the army and its value. It is now over twenty-nine years since actual hostilities ceased, and surely their payment should not longer be postponed. The amount of these claims has been greatly exaggerated, and on that an argument has been based for their repudiation, regardless of their merits." tion, regardless of their merits."

In this connection a statement from the Court of Claims is presented, which shows that on May 4 last 2,029 cases, claiming $15,283,267, had been tried, and the sum of $2,239,313 found due thereon; and that there remained 7,106 more to be tried, claiming $22,420,805.

As to the Claimants.

Regarding the claimants on account of stores and supplies, the report says: "They have been compelled by stringent laws to go to great expense in furnishing their evidence. They have passed the ordeal of investigation by the court never before imposed upon citizens of the republic. Many have died in poverty, leaving helpless familles. Most of them are poor, and in need of the actual necessaries of life. To refuse to make the appropriation to pay these claims reported would be a denial of justice and rank cannot are fined deals whereter and rank repudiation of just debts, wherein the amounts have been definitely ascertained and fixed by a court of the highest honor, ability and integrity."

The French Spollation Claims.

Of the French spoliation claims it says: These were recognized by the French ministers throughout the negotiations as valid. The sole and only defense set up was the discount of our national liability for failure to meet our obligations under the treaty of 1778. They were released to pay the national obligation. After eightyhve years of entreaty for payment, Con-gress sent them to the Court of Claims. The court has declared that some few of them constitute valid obligations, and now to refuse longer to pay such as the court has thus found is a reflection on the honor of a great country, for it is in principle as well as practical repudiation." As to the amount involved, a letter is presented from the Court of Claims, which shows that claims for $23,362,820 (which is more than half of the highest estimate placed by any one on the amount claime!) have been finally disposed of, and awards made thereon for $3,382,291, whereof the sum of $1,304,005 has been paid, leaving a balance of $2,078,196.

CAPT. DEVERY'S TRIAL. The Next New York Police Officer to

Go on the Rack. Capt. Wm. S. Devery of the New York police department will probably be tried before the police commissioners on Wednesday next. He will be tried on the charges already made against him, and the additional charge of insubordination. Last Thursday the police board held an executive session, the business of which was kept a secret. It has been learned that at that meeting Commissioner Murray presented a resolution asking that two physiclass other than the police surgeon be appointed to examine Capt. Devery as to his physical condition. Dr. Allen McLane Hamilton and Dr. E. D. Fisher were appointed and instructed to get into his house with Justice of the Peace Nammock and Inspector Conlin and make an examination Later the three sugeons and their in-spector went to the home of Capt. Devery and he refused to allow them to make as examination. The dectors reported to the commissioners, who held a meeting after-ward, and decided to send a notice to Capt. Devery that he would have to submit to the examination. The notice was sent and Saturday the doctors and Inspector Coniin went to Devery's house, and this time they were refused admission to the house. The committee reported to the commissioners, who at once proposed an addi-tional charge of insubordination for violat-ing a rule of the department, and ordered that the trial be set for Wednesday next.

Mrs. Catherine F. Cadimeton, in a bill for divorce filed against Walter L. Cadington this afternoon, states that they were married in Prince George's county, Md., September 26, 1876, and have five children, namely, May F., aged fifteen years; Rena Edith, aged thirteen; Wade L., aged ten; Mary E., aged eight, and Anneta E., aged five. The wife says that although she has at all times since the marriage been a true, devoted and loving wife, and ever minded of the comfort, prosperity and happiness of her husband, he has of late years been wholly unmindful of his marriage vows and

This street southeast, in a frenzy, caused by drunkenness. east, in a frenzy, caused by drunkenness, and severely struck and pounded her, thereby endangering her life and health, and from which she now greatly suffers. Be-cause of said blows she was rendered unconscious for a long time and wes discovered in that condition by a policeman. Mr. Cadington, the bill states, was arrested on the complaint of certain neighbors, and the same night the wire and children removed to the home of her mother, with whom she has since resided. Mrs. Cadington also avers that her husband on several occasions has threatened to take her life, and she has reason to believe he means to do so should the occasion offer. In view of the above the petitioner asks for a divorce, the care and custody of the children and for an order of the court restraining, Mr. Cadington from in any way

The Gill Case.

The application for an injunction and for the appointment of a receiver recently filed by William S. Gill against Alexander J. Gill and Theresa M. Gill was argued today in the Equity Court, before Judge Cole. Mr. R. Ross Perry appeared for the complainant, while the defendants were represerted by Mr. E. B. Hay.

After going over the entire case, Mr. Perry asked that an injunction be ordered to prevent the disposal of the property in dispute, and that a receiver be appointed dispute, and that a receiver be appointed to collect such debts as may be due the firm and to pay the creditors as far as possible. Mr. Hay made the point that the firm is in possession of no assets whatsoever, and as there is nothing to receive, a receiver is useless. Judge Cole, however, replied that in his opinion, under the circumstances, a receiver should be appointed to determine whether his services are necessito determine whether his services are neces H. The Northwestern Savings Bank declined to handle the notes or paper of the club, but required me to give my personal notes, which I did. This indebtedness to the bank or August 1, 1894, amounted to about $20,-600. The club having a floating debt and requiring more money to carry it through the present season, I proposed to the bank that they advance $15,000 additional, and take the joint note of the club and myself for the full amount of $14,000, which note I estate and leasehold on St. Louis avenue. This proposition the bank accepted, and the notes and security were given to the bank. My individual notes to the bank were can-celed and the $15,000 placed to my credit. "Out of that I have paid the floating debt, o that its affairs stand today as follows:
